

Project Olympus is pleased to invite

Women in the School of Computer Science

to join

Project Olympus and TechPOWR for a special reception

Tuesday, September 29, 2009 from 5:30 to 8 pm

Project Olympus Space
4620 Henry Street
Oakland

TechPOWR is a regional women's networking organization that provides a noncompetitive environment to inform, learn among and enlighten women in technology fields. TechPOWR meets monthly where members keep each other updated on the latest technology, and share experiences and developments in their career-field.

Project Olympus will be hosting the September meeting. The program will feature a brief overview of Project Olympus followed by a short presentation by Dr. Carol Frieze and members of the Women@SCS Roadshow team.

Here is a chance to meet professional women who are in the workforce. Find out about the job market, what they wished they had learned while in school, and how they keep on top of their profession.

Questions? Contact Kit Needham, Senior Business Advisor for Olympus (kit@cs.cmu.edu)

Refreshments will be served.
